PREFACE.

Just one hundred years ago the first Directory of the Town of Boston was published. It contained fifty-six pages and 1474 names, and bears the name of John Norman as publisher. It was reprinted in full in the Directory of 1852. The population of Boston in 1789 was about 18,000. A comparison of this little book with the Directory of 1889 is very interesting, showing the wonderful growth of the city in population and business during the century. As may be seen by the figures below, this volume contains 192,853 names, and the various departments fill 1972 pages, while our population is now estimated at 435,000.

The Directory Office Library contains copies of all the Boston Directories published, excepting that of 1815. It is doubtful if any were published for that year, and the publishers would gladly welcome any information concerning the volume of that date. The collection is open for the inspection of those interested.

*Number of Names in Directory of 1889	192,853
Number of Names in Directory of 1888	191,753
Increase	1,100
Names added	40,085
Names erased	38,985
Changes in location, etc	51,950
Number of changes made in preparing General Directory	131,020

*This number includes the names of about 2000 individuals who have died during the year or have removed from the city, with date, etc.

By comparing these figures, it is seen that there are 131,020 alterations in a total of 191,753 names that composed the Directory of 1888, or about 68⅓ per cent.
